Fig. 1 is a side cross-sectional view of the support structure. It shows a vertical assembly. At the top is a flange or cap (22). Below this is a central core (23) which is filled with a material containing numerous small, dark, rectangular supporting pillars (52). At the bottom of the core is another flange or base (24). The entire structure is shown in a perspective view, with a front face and a side face.
